

Author Guidelines

1. Applied Research on English Language is published by the English department at the University of Isfahan, Iran. The journal disseminates peer reviewed original research. Contributions must be written exclusively in English and should address an issue in applied linguistics or language teaching.
2. All submissions should report original, previously unpublished research results, experimental or theoretical. Articles submitted to the journal should meet these criteria and must not be under consideration for publication elsewhere.
3. Authors should note that it may take about 12 weeks for a review to be completed. All authors receive an acknowledgement upon receipt to confirm the arrival of their papers.
4. Manuscripts should not be longer than 6,000 words. An abstract of between 150 and 200 words followed by up to 7 keywords is also required.
5. Manuscripts must be written in MS WORD (font: Times New Roman 12). Keep the layout of the text as simple as possible. Divide your article into clearly defined (main sections in bold and subsections in italics) but unnumbered sections.
6. Applied Research on English Language publishes research using qualitative, quantitative or mixed methods.
7. Authors must strictly follow APA style:
